Electronic Showcase (Up to 300 words) (Case Study or Practice Demonstration)

Submit a showcase through video/visual presentation.

1. Case Study

A practical case can be a learning activity or program in an authentic local context reflecting cultural variations (Click example). A case study is comprehensive.

2. Practice Demonstration

Compared with a case study, a practice demonstration can be a small portion of your practical work which you would like to have a quick demonstration at the conference. A 5–10-minute practice demonstration session can be creative or informative about teaching/learning/training artifacts, including a module or modules for teaching/learning/training, online course design, assignments, projects, syllabi, innovative workshops, etc. This showcase aims to demonstrate a better practice of teaching and learning to scholars and practitioners. Such Practice Demonstration can come from the Eastern or international learning contexts.

Please include the following in your proposal:

- Proposal title, author(s)' name, position, affiliation, and contact information
- The title of your Project (indicate Case Study or Practice Demonstration)
- Abstract
  - ✓ A description of the activity or program
  - ✓ Significance of this activity or program
  - ✓ The design, delivery, and/or function of this activity/program (If applicable)
  - ✓ Specify the takeaways from your case study or practice demonstration
  - ✓ Indicate your showcase format (using video, visual format with an audio introduction, or other multimedia formats).

Conference Proceedings

Authors whose proposals are accepted will have the option of submitting their presented papers for possible publication through peer-reviewed conference proceedings. Authors have until the proceedings deadline to upload their proceedings files. More information related to conference proceedings publication will be made available upon proposal acceptance. In addition, a peer-reviewed academic journal Special Issue may be selected from accepted and presented authors' research studies.

Contact Xi Lin at: linxi18@ecu.edu if you have questions about submission.

Contact Qi Sun at: qsun8@utk.edu if you have questions regarding the pre-conference.
