

Kansas Agricultural Experiment Station Research Reports

Volume 3
Issue 7 Swine Day

Article 1

2017

Note about 50th anniversary

R. D. Goodband

Department of Animal Science and Industry, Kansas State University, goodband@ksu.edu

Follow this and additional works at: <https://newprairiepress.org/kaesrr>

 Part of the Animal Sciences Commons

Recommended Citation

Goodband, R. D. (2017) "Note about 50th anniversary," Kansas Agricultural Experiment Station Research Reports: Vol. 3: Iss. 7.
<https://doi.org/10.4148/2378-5977.7454>

This report is brought to you for free and open access by New Prairie Press. It has been accepted for inclusion in Kansas Agricultural Experiment Station Research Reports by an authorized administrator of New Prairie Press. Copyright 2017 Kansas State University Agricultural Experiment Station and Cooperative Extension Service. Contents of this publication may be freely reproduced for educational purposes. All other rights reserved. Brand names appearing in this publication are for product identification purposes only. No endorsement is intended, nor is criticism implied of similar products not mentioned. K-State Research and Extension is an equal opportunity provider and employer.

Note about 50th anniversary

Abstract

This year marks the 50th Swine Industry Day and Report of Progress. We are deeply appreciative of the innovators who had the foresight to begin such a program of disseminating the latest swine research to the industry and the many people who have contributed along our 50-year history. K-State's Swine Day is the oldest and longest-running swine day in the country. It provides us the opportunity to share the latest research with our K-State family, and could not have been done without the tremendous support of our producers, industry stakeholders, and students.

Keywords

swine

Creative Commons License

This work is licensed under a Creative Commons Attribution 4.0 License.

Dear Friends of the Kansas State University Swine Program,

This year marks the 50th Swine Industry Day and Report of Progress. We are deeply appreciative of the innovators who had the foresight to begin such a program of disseminating the latest swine research to the industry and the many people who have contributed along our 50-year history. K-State's Swine Day is the oldest and longest-running swine day in the country. It provides us the opportunity to share the latest research with our K-State family, and could not have been done without the tremendous support of our producers, industry stakeholders, and students.

As a faculty, we are humbled to serve such a great industry. We hope the information presented each year is relevant to your businesses and successful in training the next generation of swine professionals.

Once again, thank you for your continued support.

Sincerely,

Present and past Kansas State University swine faculty

